Focus: This program aims to promote shared security, stability, and technological innovation for the United States and Ukraine by establishing collaborative partnerships between U.S. and Ukrainian scholars, industries, and research institutions in key priority areas. These partnerships will enhance defense capabilities and security while promoting technological innovation and shared knowledge between the United States and Ukraine.

By integrating education, defense, and innovation, the program strengthens U.S. national security and ensures that Ukraine remains a robust partner, mitigating the risk of its intellectual and technological advancements being exploited by competitors.

These partnerships will help enhance the resilience of U.S. and Ukrainian defense sectors, strengthen cyber defenses, increase energy security, and utilize U.S. best practices and expertise in agriculture, construction, and demining to help create a safer and more secure U.S.-Ukraine partnership, leading to increased economic and investment opportunities for U.S. businesses.

Through integration of education, defense, and innovation, this program aims to promote shared security, stability, and technological innovation for United States and Ukraine. Collaborative university partnerships in these areas will help strengthen U.S. national security and ensure that Ukraine remains a robust partner, enhancing exclusive sharing and collaboration on intellectual and technological advancements. Partnerships will also help successfully transition technology and innovation from wartime use to economic recovery and investment.
