Purpose: The purpose of this NOFO is to advance strategic and applied research to help control and eliminate con-malaria parasitic threats and neglected tropical diseases (NTDs) and other parasitic diseases in endemic countries. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) will fund critical implementation research projects and evaluation activities that inform threat control and elimination activities. This includes program monitoring and evaluation (M&E) and surveillance

Public health impacts:

- First, these evaluations and studies will provide critical scientific knowledge to guide programs in countries where NTDs and other parasitic diseases are endemic.
- Second, these activities will identify, use, and evaluate evidence-based intervention strategies to reduce morbidity and mortality due to NTDs and other parasitic diseases.
- Third, this work will be used to improve care in the U.S. or reduce the risk of infection of U.S. travelers and military personnel by reducing local transmission.

CDC priorities:

- Ensure state-of-the-art laboratories in science, quality, and safety (CDC core capability).
- Respond quickly to outbreaks at their source (CDC core capability).
- Build on strong global capacity and domestic preparedness (CDC core capability).
